Average Salary of Jobs Matching Your Search

Average Freight Broker salaries for job postings nationwide are 221% higher than average salaries for all job postings nationwide.

Here's what the top three salary sites have to say:

- PayScale: Median salary of $41,571. On the low-end, brokers earn $30,177. On the high end, they earn around $73,500. Brokers in big cities, such as Dallas, Kansas City, Houston and Portland, earn higher salaries.
- Glassdoor: National average salary is $37,592. Minimum salary is around $31,000, while high-end salary is around $49,000.
- Indeed: Transportation brokers earn on average $92,000 per year. Another Transportation Broker entry lists $54,000 as the average salary. Broker agents earn, on average, $76,000 per year, while freight broker agents earn $256,000 per year.

While the averages vary, we do know that brokers make at least as much as most company drivers. Many freight brokers/agents earn six figures; most working from their home offices.

Instructors

All lead instructors are Master Brokers and Owners of or Senior Executives of Established Prominent Brokerage Firms &/or Freight Dispatching Firms.

Phone Sales is a major factor in successful freight brokering. In light of this needed skill set; Some instructors will be chosen for their background as successful sales professionals.

Objectives

To provide every graduate with a working knowledge of Day to Day operations of freight brokering; Equip them with the resources, provide them with the training to master the technology used to enhance their success in the industry. And provide them an opportunity; to apply their newly acquired skills as a contracted broker/agent, through our Guaranteed Career Placement Program
